TO MY REPUBLICAN FRIENDS

I have been a printer, newspaper man and Republican for over twenty-two years, and have had many things to be thankful for, and a few times have received benefits at the hands of friends for which I was unable to express my thanks by either mouth or pen. I am again confronted with the same kind of experience this week when I attempt to express my gratitude and thanks to my Republican friends for their loyal support in the primary election Tuesday, even if I am defeated, and would very much like to meet you all and take you by the hand and be able in some way to make you understand with what friendship I regard all who supported me, and also how anxious I am for you again to do me the great favor of supporting my opponent in the coming campaign to the full Republican majority. I know of no reason why he should not be elected, as he is a clean man and made a clean race and will make a clean office, and I want every Republican in the county to support him for my sake, and more especially for the party's sake.

I do not want it said after November that I or my friends were sore and fought a man on the ticket, for I am not, and do not believe any friend of mine will scratch his ticket because of my defeat. If they do, it will be through no fault of mine, and I ask them all again, with all sincerity, to stay with the ticket as nominated, and greatly oblige.

Your humble servant,

W. J. WILLIAMS, Editor.

The man who is not as religious as the ballot box as he is at the sacramental board is an ardent hypocrite, no matter what church he belongs to. The idea of being sanctified at church and at the same time a yoke fellow with the devil on election day! You had better play the devil 364 days in a year and then join the army of Christ on election day! Ah, my brethren, this relation of man is a sacred matter. The question asked by Cain, the murderer, "Am I my brother's keeper?" must be answered and answered right, the world over. Please put your hands in your pockets and feel what is the matter! It is an empty pocket—that is all.

The editor of this paper feels proud of the recognition shown him thus far at the hands of the Republican party throughout the entire county, and especially the precincts of Barnett, Excelsior, Indian Creek, Marvin, Syracuse and St. Martin, and perhaps some others not yet counted which gave us large majorities, and hope to be able to maintain the high esteem in which we are held by our friends by remaining loyal as a newspaper man and a Republican.

The claim of the Democrats last spring that they were going to elect the county clerk, judge Eastern district, probate judge and prosecuting attorney this fall, has been changed since Tuesday. They are now claiming the judge in Eastern district with a possible chance for prosecuting attorney. But, pshaw!

The Democrats are looking "scared already" in Morgan county, but they are hopeful of electing the judge in the Eastern district.

Barnett News

The old Earth is still perishing for want of rain.

Rev. W. M. Allee, of Fortuna, filled his regular appointment at this place Sunday. He was accompanied by his wife and two little sons.

Mr. M. S. Imler returned Friday from Colorado where he went to view the country with the intention of locating.

L. Ferguson, of near here, met with a loss Wednesday evening by lightning striking and killing several head of horses.

Archie Kilwell and wife who have been visiting with the latter's parents, are now located in Barnett.

Willie Price, of Marvin, had business in Barnett Wednesday.

"AFFECTION"

One of the most powerful forces in the building of character is affection; and one of its most common forms is gratitude.

The exercise of affection makes us tender and loving toward all living persons and creatures about us, while the exercise of gratitude makes them tender and loving towards us.

Everyone should endeavor to cultivate this spirit of affectionate consideration for the feelings of others. We should be careful not to look or speak any word that would injure the feeling of others, or cause any unnecessary pain; yet there are many young people do this through the idea of having a little fun.

But we should not do this; we should build up a character that will hold us in the high esteem of which all young people should endeavor to possess.

No doubt we have all been thankful some time for an act done, and we simply say, "I thank you." We should endeavor to do more than this. We are to apt to forget that we have anyone to thank for the most important benefits of our lives. When we stop to think, we see all that we have done, or can do for ourselves is very little indeed in comparison with what has been done for us.

How much we owe our parents! But the outward benefits for which children have to thank their parents are of less value than the lessons of truth and goodness which are never so well taught as by the lips of a faithful and devoted father or mother. We should be kind and loving to all.

Think of the greatest ocean disaster the world has ever known—the wreck of the great ship Titanic of the men who in that hour of distress and peril sacrificed their own lives for the sake of others.

There are two principal ways in which our kind feelings may be made known: First, by our words. It is pleasant to those who do us favors to know we appreciate it, and we should not fail to tell them so. Second, by our deeds. If we are really grateful to one who does us a favor, we are not satisfied by saying, "thank you," but we wish to render some service in return.

So, friends, let us look to God who loves and cares for us all, and who has shown us his affections for us.

Crane-Comer Marriage

Married, Saturday afternoon, August 1st, in the circuit clerk's office by justice of the peace, W. H. Kavanaugh, Curtis Crane, a prosperous young farmer, and son of Mrs. Sarah Crane, of Barnett, this county, and Miss Bessie Mildred Comer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Comer, of Versailles. Both young people are highly respected and esteemed and have many friends who extend congratulations, wishing them many years of unalloyed happiness, among whom the Republican family heartily join.

Mr. and Mrs. Crane are now at home to their many friends on the farm about one mile southeast of Barnett.

Proctor Pickups

Miss Mary Shockley, who has been visiting at home for some time, returned to Versailles today.

We had a shower of rain here last week. It was certainly welcomed by all.

Mrs. Etta Wilson and children have gone to Versailles to attend the Chautauqua.

Mr. Dan Bowen's folks have had the smallpox. They are able to be out now.

Miss Ruby Poulson, of Syracuse, is coming to Proctor on a visit after attending the teachers' examination at Versailles.

Mr. and Mrs. Holst are the parents of a fine 8-lb girl. Mother and baby are doing well.

(BY ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT)

John Elmore and family, Corder, Mo., passed through Proctor one day this week enroute to Pearsons Branch in Camden county, on a visit to relatives.

Uncle Lindsay Capps is on the sick list.

J. G. Tracy was called home from Bagnell, Mo., on account of the illness of his baby, which is some better at present.

Maver Hill is visiting his mother, Mrs. John Bowers, this week, but expects to return to his home in New Franklin, Mo., soon.

Sunday school at Proctor every Sunday at ten o'clock. Preaching every 2nd Sunday at eleven o'clock a. m. and eight p. m., also every 4th Sunday night. Everybody invited.

The ice cream supper at Chas. Ensminger's was well attended. The proceeds went to the L. T. L. The order will meet with Mrs. Ensminger the fourth Sunday in August. All members especially are invited to be present.

Died in Nevada, Mo., July 19, 1914, Robert Ward, who had been an inmate of the hospital there the past ten years. He had been in failing health during the entire time. The remains were brought here for interment.

In Memoriam

It is hard, indeed, to stand by the bedside of a loved one and see the last ray of sunshine fade in the loving eyes, and know that they are no more in this world.

Little Viola Silvey the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Silvey was the flower of their home—loved by all who knew her, and will be sadly missed from the family circle, and yet we know she is not dead but sleeping, and is waiting to greet her parents and loved ones over on the other shore.

At His appointed time He came To call our precious girl That she might with the angels shine In that bright celestial world.

A father's hope has blasted been.

A mother's hope brought low.

The loss of such a treasure as this.

Their hearts alone can know.

To Our Correspondents

We are glad to receive your items, but if they arrive later than Wednesday noon hereafter, we will not insure their publication. We also will appreciate the efforts of our correspondents much more if they will omit neighborhood visits from their items. It is all right to tell about your friends and relatives from distant towns or counties visiting with you, but we have no time to set type for neighborhood visits and trifling mention. Such items as births, deaths, bad sickness, farm improvements of all kinds, road improvements, loss of property and other items of real interest to the general public.
